Van Gogh was born in Zundert, Netherlands, in 1853. He began his career as an art dealer, but he soon realized that his true passion was painting. In 1880, he moved to Paris, where he met other artists, including Paul Gauguin and Georges Seurat. Van Gogh's work was influenced by the Impressionists and Post-Impressionists, but he developed his own unique style.

In 1888, Van Gogh moved to Arles, France. This was a period of great creativity for him, and he produced some of his most famous paintings, including "The Starry Night" and "Sunflowers." However, Van Gogh also suffered from mental illness, and he was frequently hospitalized.

In 1890, Van Gogh moved to Auvers-sur-Oise, France. He was under the care of Dr. Paul Gachet, who was also an art collector. Van Gogh continued to paint until his death in 1890. He was only 37 years old.

Van Gogh's work has had a profound impact on art. His paintings are now some of the most popular and recognizable in the world. Van Gogh is considered one of the greatest painters of all time, and his work continues to inspire artists and art lovers around the world.

Some of Van Gogh's Most Famous Paintings

- The Starry Night (1889) - This is one of Van Gogh's most famous and iconic paintings. It depicts a view from the window of his asylum room in Saint-Rémy-de-Provence, France. The painting is characterized by its vibrant colors and swirling brushwork. It is now housed in the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.
- Sunflowers (1888) - Van Gogh painted several different versions of sunflowers. These paintings are characterized by their bright colors and thick brushwork. They are now some of the most popular and recognizable paintings in the world. One of the most famous versions of Sunflowers is housed in the National Gallery in London.
- The Potato Eaters (1885) - This painting depicts a group of peasants eating potatoes. It is one of Van Gogh's earliest major works, and it shows his compassion for the poor and working class. The Potato Eaters is now housed in the Van Gogh Museum in Amsterdam.
